Piles.
 Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, looseness of the stomach, etc. A nocturnal perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure where all other remedies have failed. Price 50 cents. Sold by C. Schaefer, A. Dreiss and L. Orvinsky.
A WOULD-BE SUICIDE.
Strange Discovery of a Man Hanging by His Heels Near Houston Street.
 As my friend and I were walking past the old bridge, our attention was attracted by a man who was hanging head downward from one of the cross beams, with his feet so wedged in between the timbers that it took several minutes and our united efforts before we could extricate him. Upon lifting him up, I found my hands covered with blood, and as I laid him down upon the bridge, I saw a deep gash extending from ear to ear across his throat. We were horrified at the ghastly spectacle, and my friend hastened away for a physician. In the meantime I noticed an occasional trembling of the would-be suicide, and judged rightly that life was not extinct. By this time the physician arrived, and at once applied restoratives, and in a few moments the poor fellow recovered consciousness. I knelt down beside him and asked him why he had acted so desperately, and he reached up and taking my hand out of my pocket, wrote on the back of a card these words: "A kind friend advised me to buy a watch from Emerson; I bought elsewhere, and my shoes are worn out running to the shop. I have not got enough money to pay for the last repairs; you know the rest."

LOCAL NEWS.

SAN ANTONIO'S PROGRESS.

Look Upon This Picture of Progression and Upon That

Who shall say that San Antonio does not progress? Search the records of offenders against the peace and dignity of the city and there will be found a marked increase. Analyze the criminal docket in the justices' courts, or the District court, and the same increase is noticeable. There are more demimondes, more maisons du jeu, more saloons, more gambling resorts, and more prison accommodations. These things, unsavory though they may be, are the attributes of a great city, and they surely show the prosperity of San Antonio, because where the prey is there also will be the hawk and the buzzard. This is the dark side of city life. On the other side a pleasant picture is presented of increased intelligence, public spirit intensified, trade extended, of which the city is the common center, noble buildings erected and the streets improved. San Antonio can show more real progress within the past two years than any other city in Texas, and is fitting herself to remain as she is, the greatest city in the State.

STOPPED BY A STONE.

The San Antonio Small Boys Strike an Unexpected Bonanza.

It is commonly supposed that the large stones frequently seen on the city streets are of no other use than for damaging buggies, and many are the anathemas they cause to fall on the poor Street Commissioner's head. But even these obstructions can be of little use even if they do much damage. This fact was exemplified by an amusing scene that occurred on Crockett street on Saturday, when the runaway team of a country fruit dealer came dashing down the street. Suddenly it came to a stand still, for one of the wheels struck against a large stone lying in the road, upsetting the wagon and scattering the fruit in all directions. Much difficulty was experienced in gathering up the fragments that remained, and a considerable quantity disappeared into other channels. The LIGHT would not impeach the San Antonio small boys' honesty, but it was a remarkable incident to find so many boys eating peaches on Saturday night, when as a rule they cannot spare a nickel to buy them.

Kerrville Kernels.

KERRVILLE, TEXAS, July 19, 1883.—I won't LIGHT. Send me your paper. I guess you know me, as I am the fellow that sold the barrel of flour for a barrel of lime. Kerr county is booming since the rain, and crop prospects are very good, though some of the corn was cut short by the drought. Cotton is looking fine.
 Kerrville is looming up. Mr. Charles Schreiner has moved into the new store building, which would be a credit to any town in Texas.
 Coleman & Son's have their store full of goods, and are doing a splendid business. There is some talk of a fine hotel being built in this town in the near future. Bon.
City Scavenger Replies.
Editor LIGHT:
 The following item appeared in your paper on the 17th:
 "A subscriber of the LIGHT, living on East Commerce street, near the Arbeiter Verein hall, complains that the city scavenger has not been around for nearly two months."
 Allow me, through the columns of your paper, to say I have been around regular every day for the past six weeks, and if the person did not have the trash hauled away it was because it was not put out on the sidewalk where I could get it.

Their First Meeting.

The Chess and Checker club met on Saturday night for the first time in the club room (No. 8) over Groos' bank, and were busily engaged in playing chess and checkers. The club room has been conveniently furnished and the members are very select and social. It is therefore a pleasant addition to San Antonio's societies. During the evening a business meeting was held, when Mr. W. W. Woodcock was elected as Treasurer, vice Mr. Madarasz, unable to act, and Professor Halbed was unanimously elected to membership.
The Modern Dog-in-the-Manger.
 The San Antonio Literary and Debating society and the British association are both willing to undertake the care of the old Alamo Literary and Debating society's library, and to open it for public use. Yet those who are responsible act in the dog-in-the-manger style and will not use the library themselves nor allow the public to do so. It is contrary to common sense or reason that such a valuable collection of books, purchased and donated for public use, should be allowed to remain boxed up in the librarian's possession.
Score Another for San Antonio.
 A very large quantity of watermelons were shipped from San Antonio, Mr. Potter alone forwarding 2000 to El Paso. The shipments of cantaloupes, melons, and fruit up to date already exceed the grand total of last year, and the prices realized are better.

In Texas Since 1840. In San Antonio Since 1848.
